Simply the Best

Another year is past. We are all a year older, a year wiser, a year closer to being on our own. Looking back on this time brings memories of both failure and success in classes, in sports, and in relationships. Each day has its own unique experiences, and we have recorded as many of them as possible in Schola 1991.

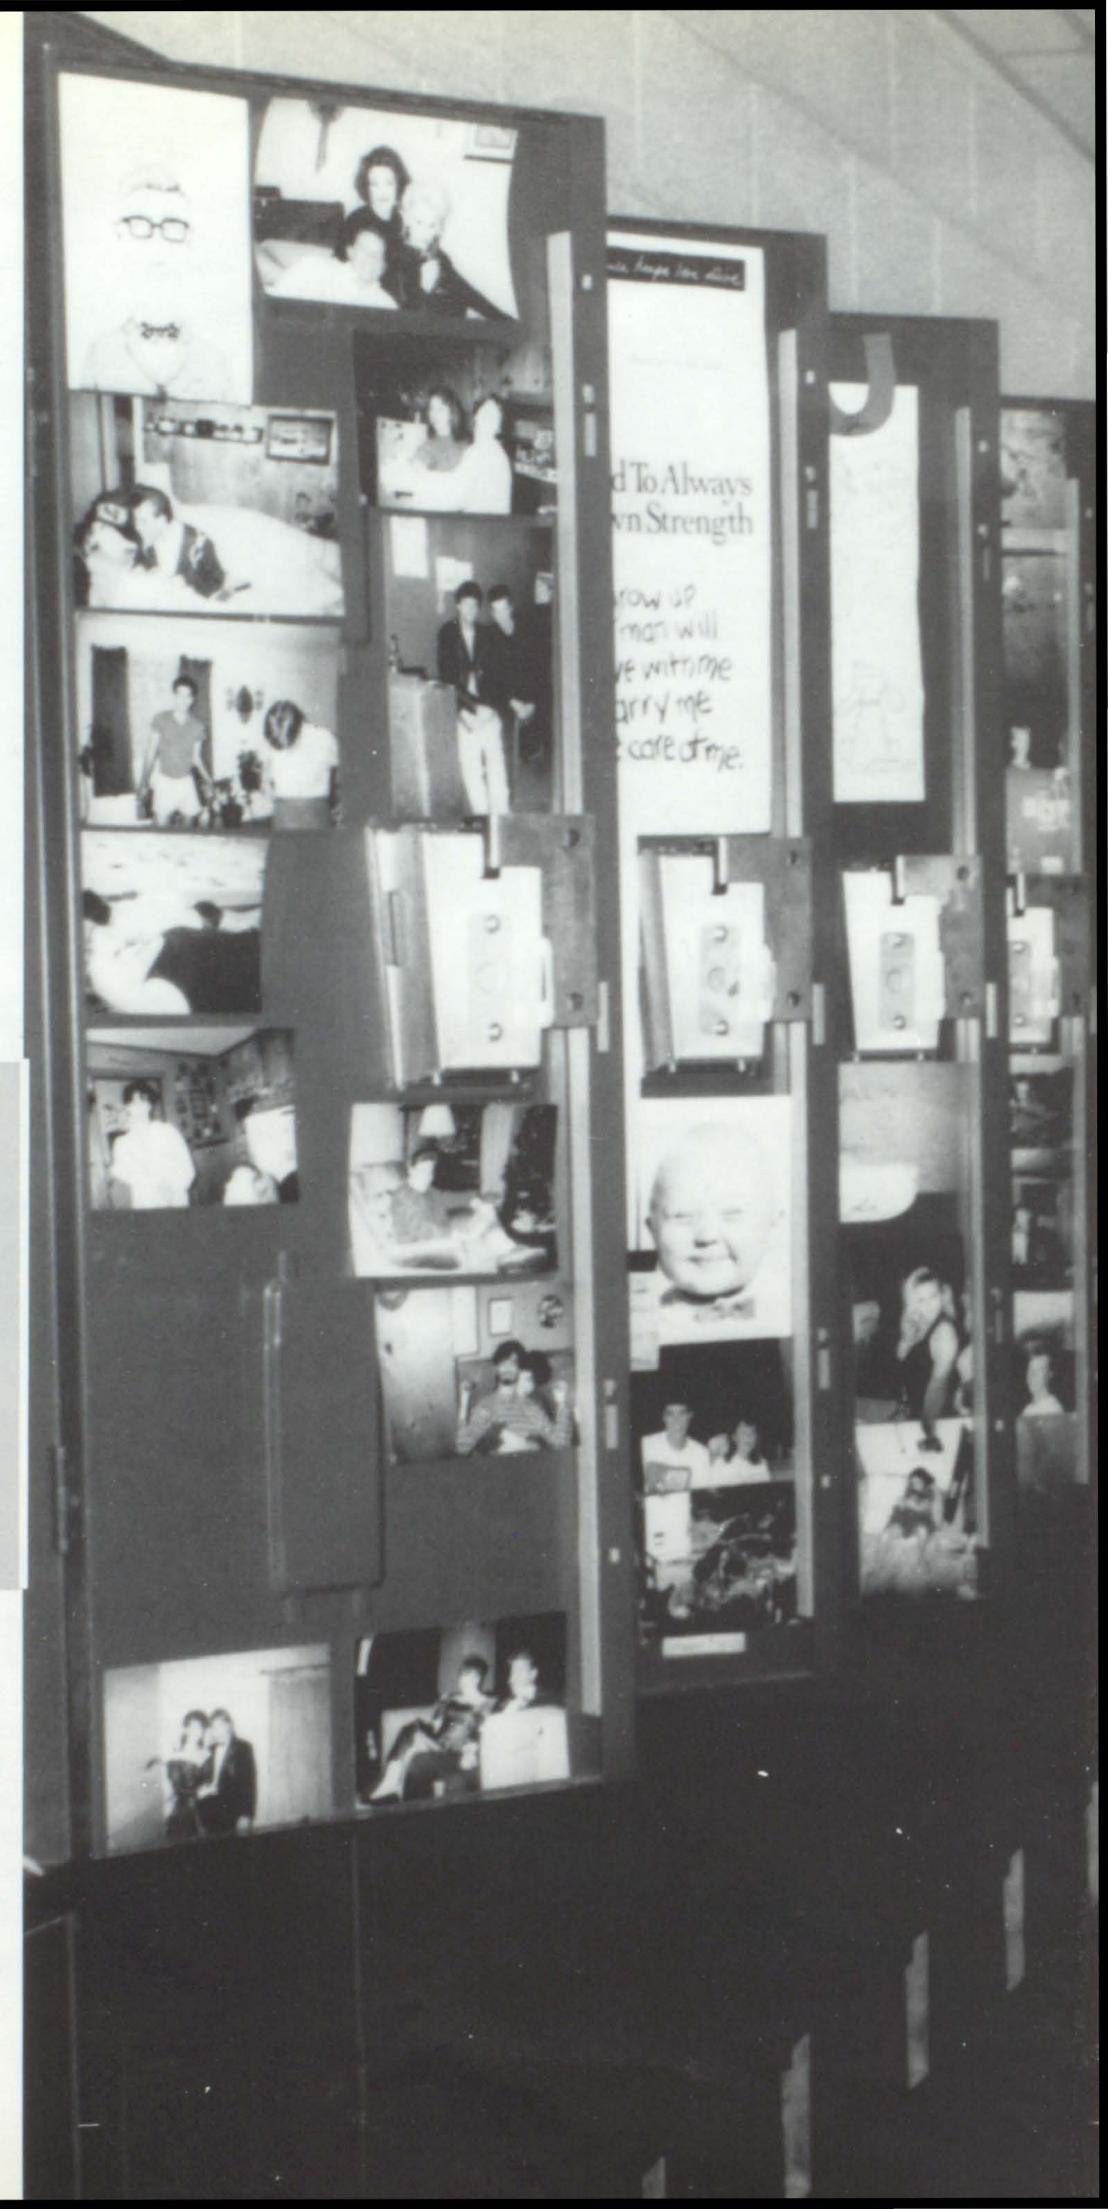

Each year at Gorham High School is a little different than any other, and a yearbook is meant to reflect that difference. Pictures are taken, stories are written, another class of Seniors record quotes and messages. This particular time cannot be recalled or changed, only remembered.

But we all will take a little piece of it with us, wherever we go. It affects our attitude toward life, whether returning next year or heading out into the "real world." And part of what you have learned at Gorham High School should be knowing that whatever you do, give it everything you've got. Because everyone here has the potential to be — Simply The Best.

Ben Bliss demonstrates the "interesting" teaching methods at Gorham.

Stephanie Cook — Simply strange

SIMPLY LIFE

Simply life. Homecoming, Spirit week, Lock-in . . . the things in Gorham meant to include the entire student body, they're all found here. No restrictions have been placed, no special abilities are needed to be a part of this section. All you need is a little school spirit, a "touch of class," so to speak.

Gorham High School has taken on a new dimension. People are making the effort to draw all the students here together. "Involvement" is the word used more and more often, and people are surprised at the results.

Students are discovering that in school, as in most other things, you get out what you put in. We all have to give a little of ourselves, because that's what school spirit is all about.

One sign of student life — senior lockers.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming was the kickoff to the most eventful year ever seen by Gorham High School. It began Thursday night with a fireside pep rally fueled by the band "Aces Wild" and a few hamburgers. Friday involved an exciting soccer game and a cross-country victory. Many fundraisers capitalized on the exuberant turnout of fans. Both Girls' Soccer and Field Hockey teams had excellent games despite the uncooperative weather. All of the activities came to a climax with the Homecoming dance which produced a tremendous response from students.

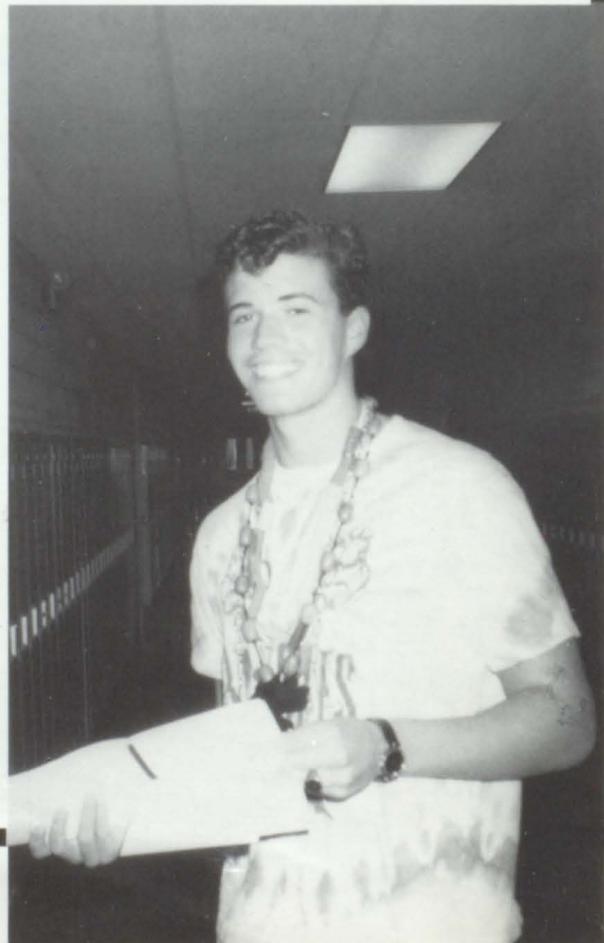

---

"Mr. Willett hides from Mrs. Hinds during the time he should have been in the dunk tank."

"Definitely the most work these Seniors will do all year!"

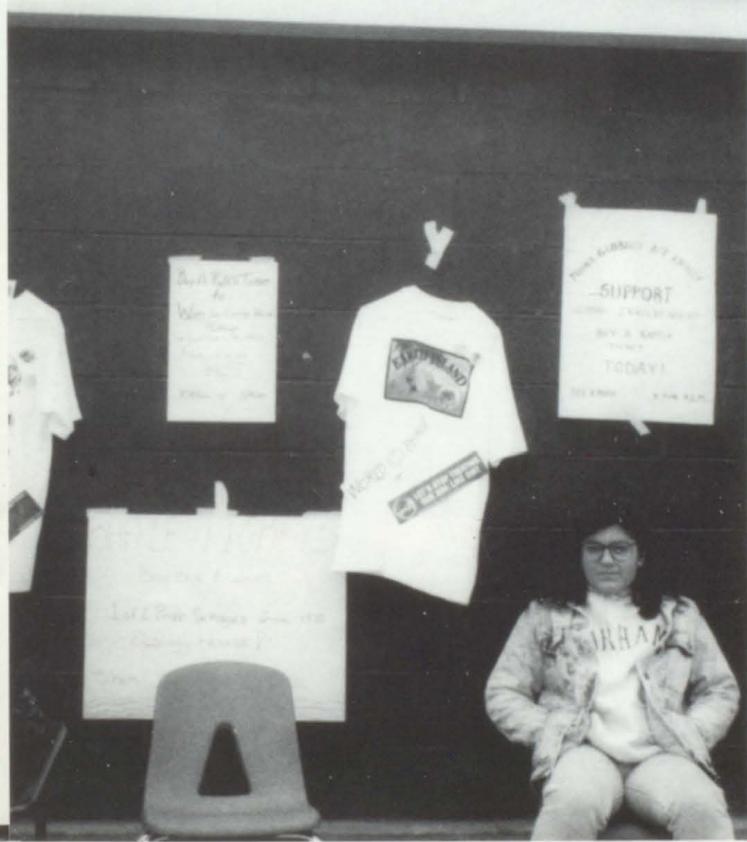

"Nice necklace Levine."

King and Queen of the Homecoming Dance, Sam Morton and Samantha Aceto.

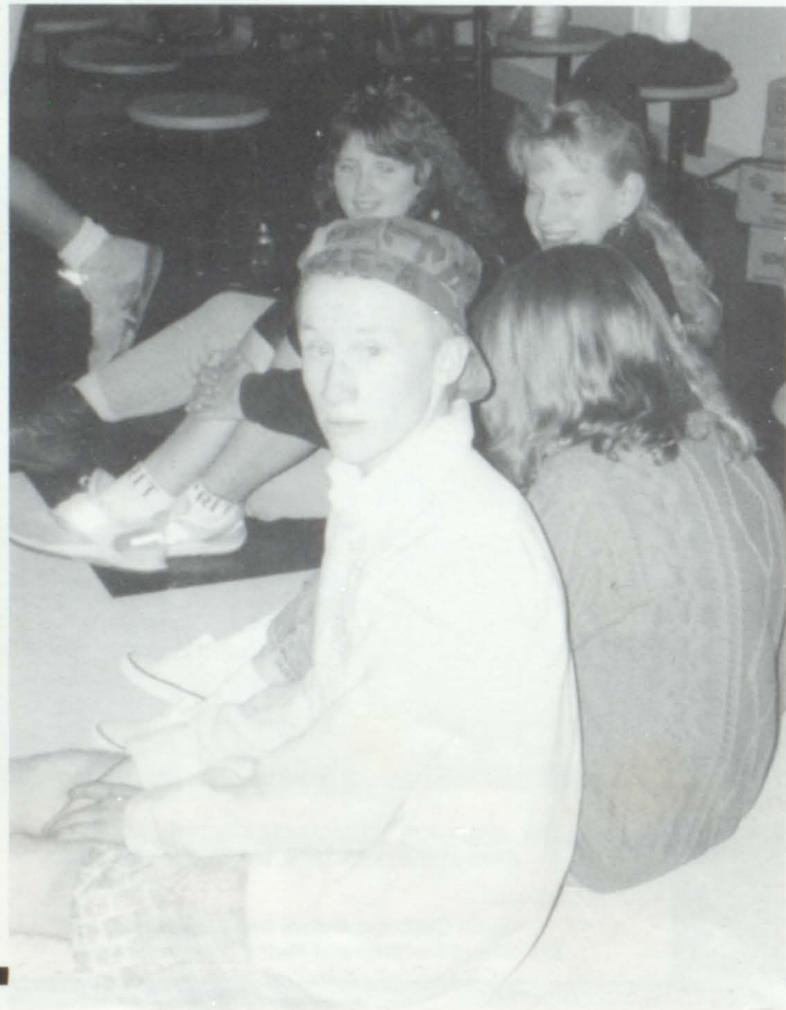

"Mr. Hagstrom respects his dignified position even in the dunk tank, by wearing his suit and tie."

"Josie Carbone shows her enthusiasm for the Global Involvement Raffle extravaganza!"

LOCK IN!

In November of this past year the Senior class sponsored Gorham High School's first-ever Lock-In. The event was held from 8:00 p.m. Friday evening until 8:00 a.m. Saturday morning. About 120 students and faculty locked themselves in for an evening of great fun.

Some of the activities were volleyball, spoon-threading, movies, and food. There was music all night long, with a special performance by Gorham's own Ace's Wild. Janet Kafkas organized the event (picture left). The proceeds from the Lock-In went towards Project Graduation 1991, and a new Gorham tradition was begun.

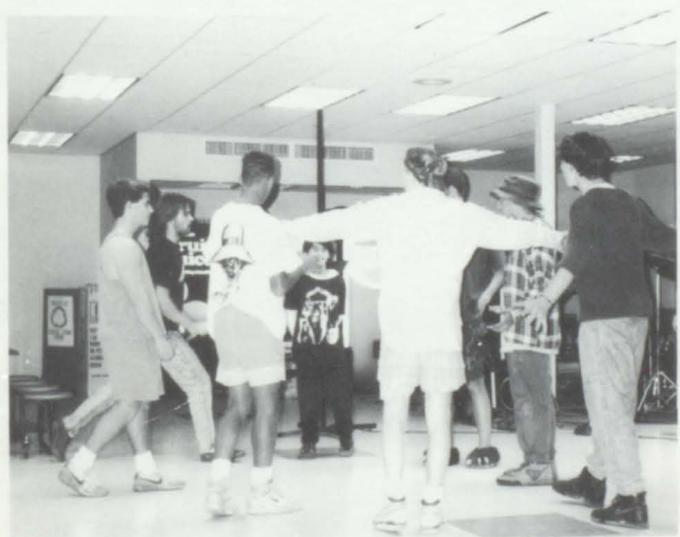

How would you like to wake up with this every morning?

Devereaux Barnes strings us along.

Looks like the icebreaker did its job.

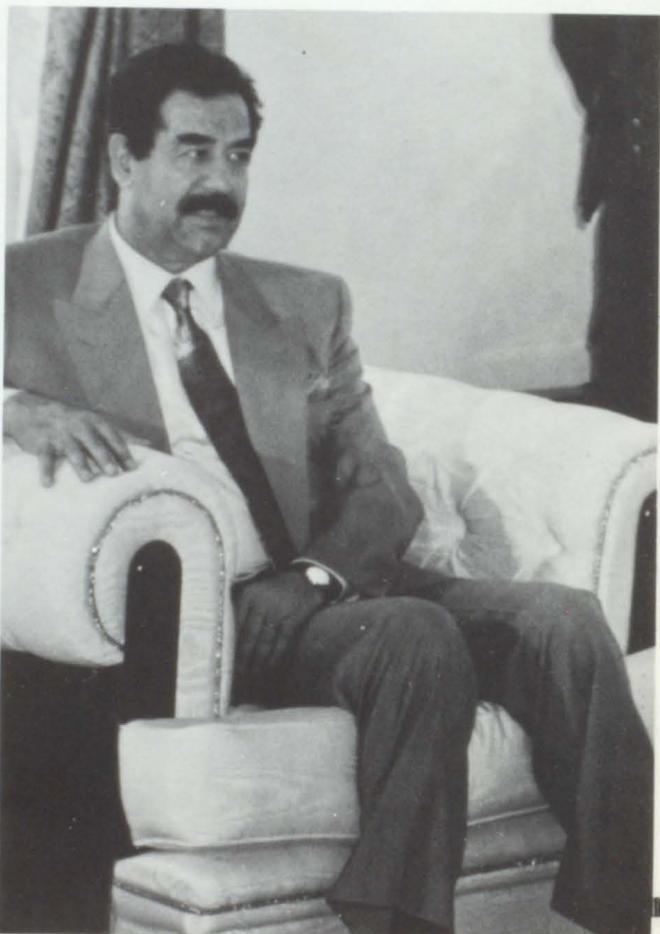

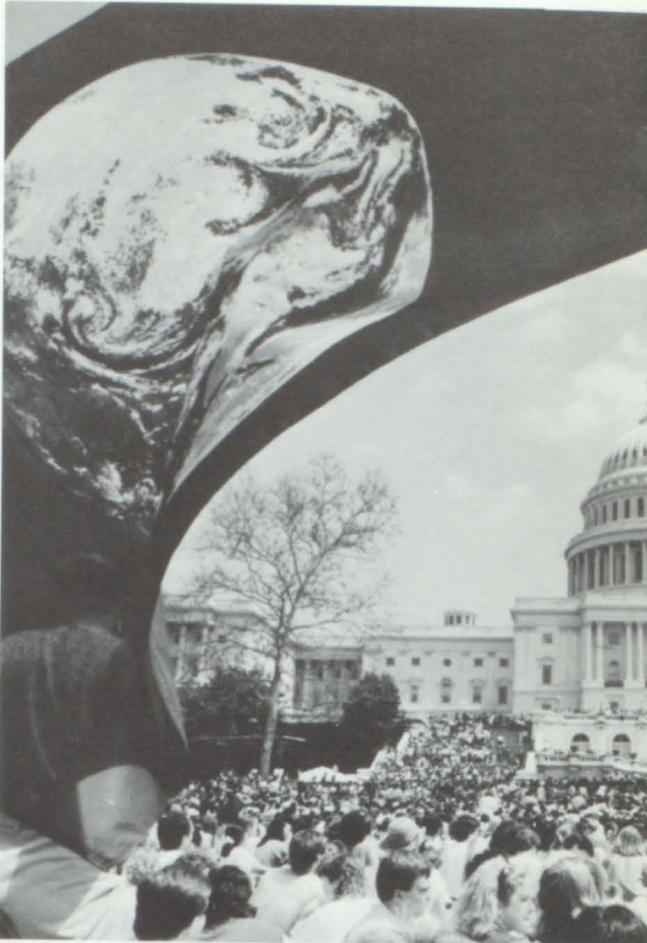

This is one way to keep the Senior class together.

1990 started off with a return to reality. On April 22 the 20th anniversary of Earth Day was celebrated in 140 nations (upper left). Nelson Mandela, released in February of 1990, kicked off a 14 nation tour urging foreign governments to maintain sanctions against South Africa. Saddam Hussein (far left), president of Iraq, invaded Kuwait in August causing the U.S. to send in upwards of 300,000 troops to aid the government of Kuwait. The men and women of Project Desert Shield spent Thanksgiving and Christmas away from their families during this crucial period.

WINTER CARNIVAL

Keith Young plays a nail biting game of "Jenga."

Snow on Valentines Day made Winter Carnival hectic for NHS members. Because lovebirds couldn't wait to see if they were remembered by that special someone.

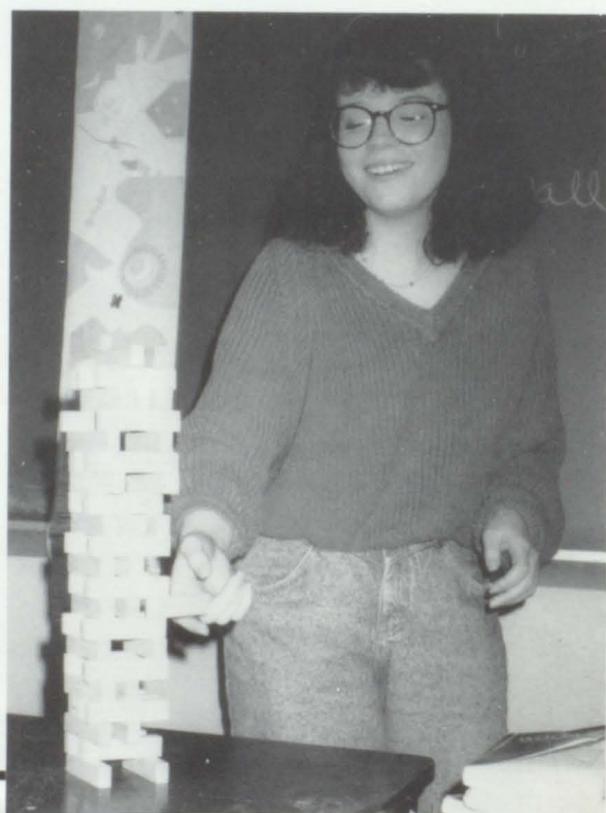

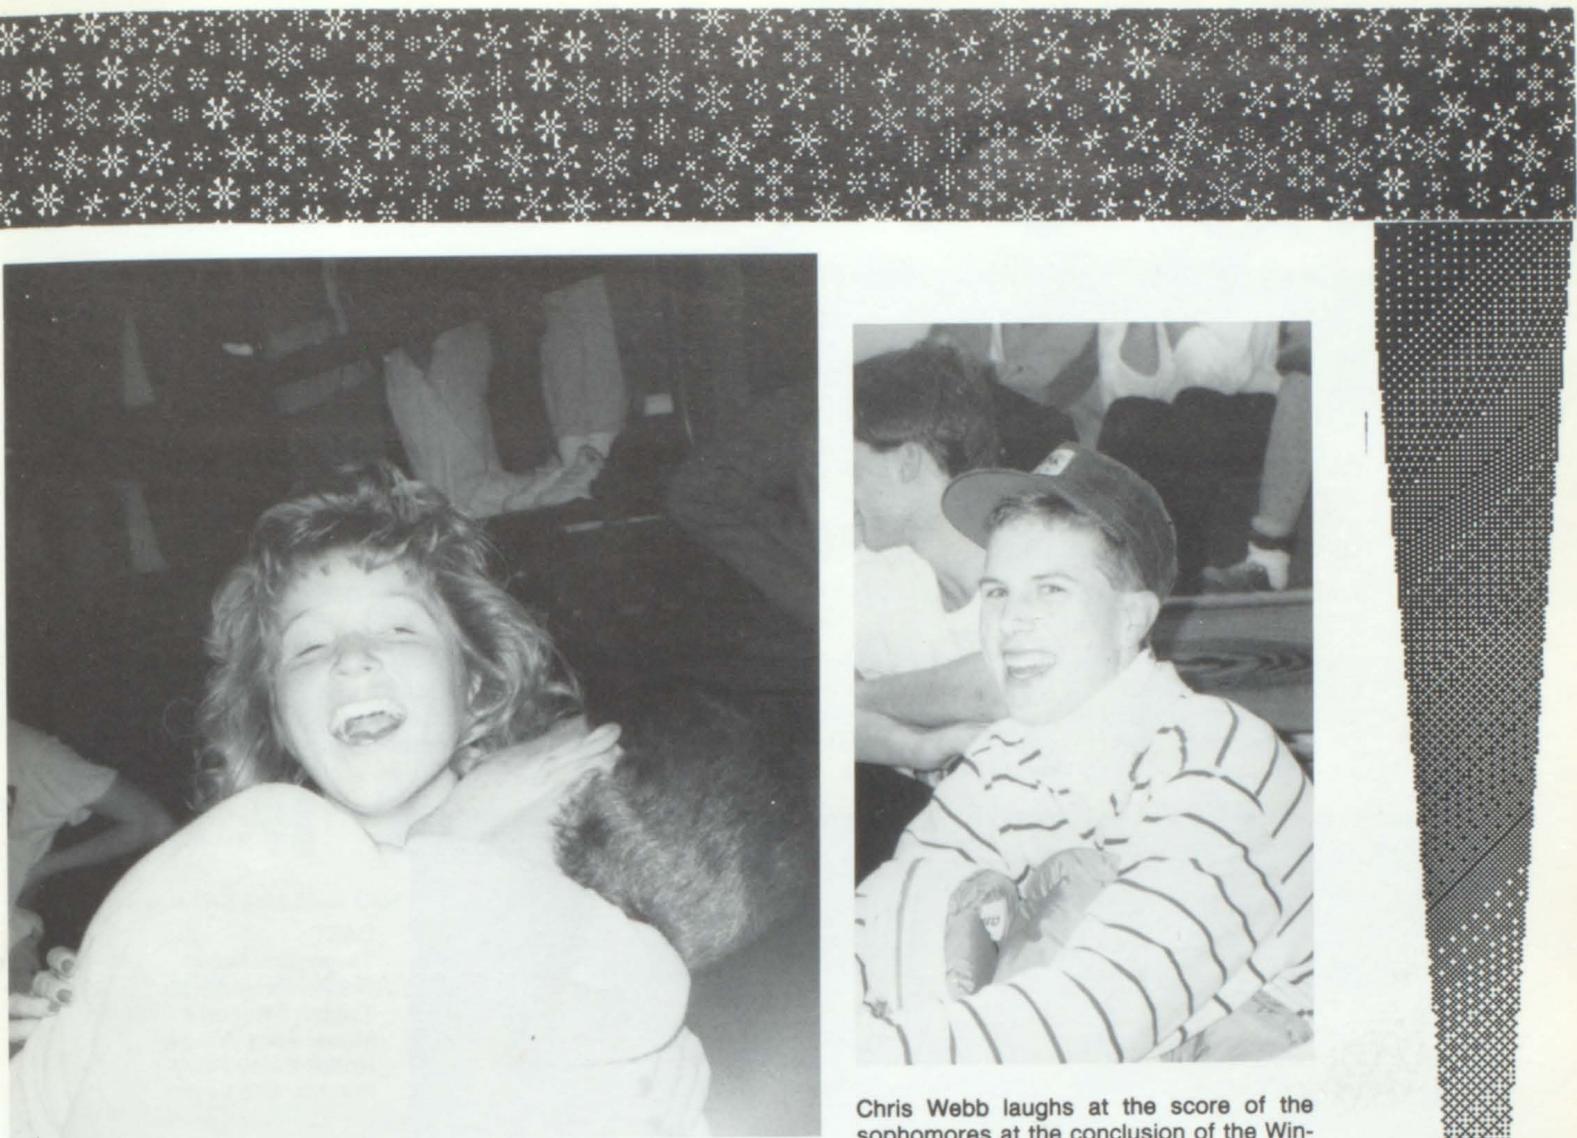

Winter Carnival took off with a shakey start this year but with some quick thinking and a lot of participation by the staff it turned into a great kick-off to vacation. The events ranged from Junga to arm wrestling, with the most crowd pleasing being volleyball and the infamous fast food race.

Thanks to wins in volleyball, the fast food race, and a strong placing in the wheelchair race, the seniors triumphed once again.

Heather Nordman — defying gravity!

Janice and Greg in a very friendly grapefruit pass!

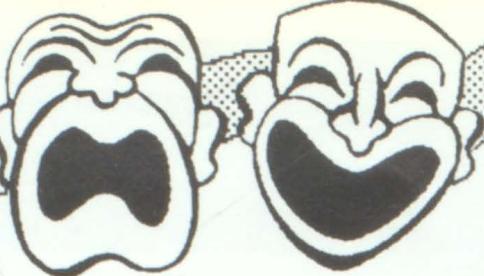

The teachers get into the spirit of Winter Carnival.

Chris Webb laughs at the score of the sophomores at the conclusion of the Winter Carnival.

Seniors taking their volleyball a little more seriously.

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF

Gorham High produced one of the best musicals it has seen in history this year, Fiddler on the Roof. This is the story of the persecution and eviction of the Russian Jews in a small village called Anatevka. Tevye and Golde, who are played by Erik Hayes and Marya Payeur, are the characters which the play revolves around. The story focuses on Tevye and Golde's five daughters and the conflict between tradition and progression.

Traditionally the marriages are arranged by the Matchmaker (Beth Murray), but Tzeitel, Hodel, and Chava in the end marry the ones they love.

Thanks to Mr. Peterson's interest and dedication this play became a reality. Mr. Glen Anderson was the director. With his vast experience in theatre he brought out the best in each participant. A special thanks to Sue McCormack although injured during a rehearsal was dedicated enough to continue to lend her choreography expertise. Sets by Mr. Roger Lord and Adam Lord, and costumes by Mrs. Deborah Roy added the finishing touches needed to make the play an all around success.

SIMPLY PEOPLE

Becky Barrows is the foremost member of Gorham High Beautification Society.

Of course, the most important part of any school is the people. They give the school its identity. Students, faculty and administration are the basis on which everything else is built.

When you talk about the high school, you might dwell on their sports teams, or their academics, or their debate or math teams. But none of these are possible without the work of the people who attend. And the attitude of outsiders toward the school depends on these people, the ones who work to make things happen.

Gorham High School is really just a building. The townspeople can hire construction workers to change the appearance of this building anytime. But the thing that gives Gorham its character, that separates us from Cape Elizabeth or Lake Region or Bonny Eagle, is "simply the best" people. And what people say about Gorham ultimately depends on us.

---

"Of course he's going to be a basketball player!" Mr. Jenkins growls.

Class of '91 Dedication

She scolds, lectures, rants and raves! She demands you do the best you can. She wants us to respect others; but more important she wants us to respect ourselves. She encourages us, she laughs with us and shares our sorrow. She hugs, she listens, she cares!! That is why the Senior class chose to dedicate this year's book to Mrs. Donna Hinds.

Sincerely
The Senior Class

Mr. Feudenberger is retiring to enter the business world. He has been at Gorham High School since 1974. He was the first certified counselor employed by the town. The 17 years at Gorham High School have been enjoyable and satisfying for him as he has helped numerous students and families over difficulties. As a golf coach and guidance counselor he will be missed and our best wishes go with him into his new ventures.

Every once in a while someone touches our lives and from that encounter we grow a little more. One such person is a teacher here at GHS, Ruth Gheen. In the four years she has taught here, Ms. Gheen has been an outstanding teacher and exceptional friend to a number of people — faculty and student alike. In the classroom, she is patient and rarely, if ever, gives up on even the most confused students. Beyond the classroom, she is passionate about the importance of preserving the environment and it is this concern which led her to pursue a recycling program in the school with hopes of expansion into the community. As a person, she does not feel any inhibitions in becoming friends with students or in making herself available if one needs advice or merely to talk. Her sense of humour and compassion are witness to this. As a teacher she will be missed but even more so as a person her absence will be felt by all who know her. Thanks for everything Gheeno — we'll miss you ...

Amy Metayer and Jessica Crowley join the recycling team.

Corey Adams, Todd Brunson and Jeff Grahm begin the Gorham Stud Club.

Jon Roods practices his palm reading abilities — on himself.

Aaron Nobel tries to explain to Chip Noble what all the little black dots mean.

Brian Mitsin and Kristine Trueworthy answer survey questions for The Family Feud.

Scott Nickerson laughs at one of the hidden Mr. Wiblin's many jokes.

Jamie Randall is bullish on the nineties — just like Merrill Lynch.

Aimee Gosselin and Lori Capozza — no caption included.

Laura Morey and Rebekah Sommers walk barefoot in the halls at midnight.

Joshua Sturges can't believe Katie Ward and Jen Lefebvre are eating their fingernails!

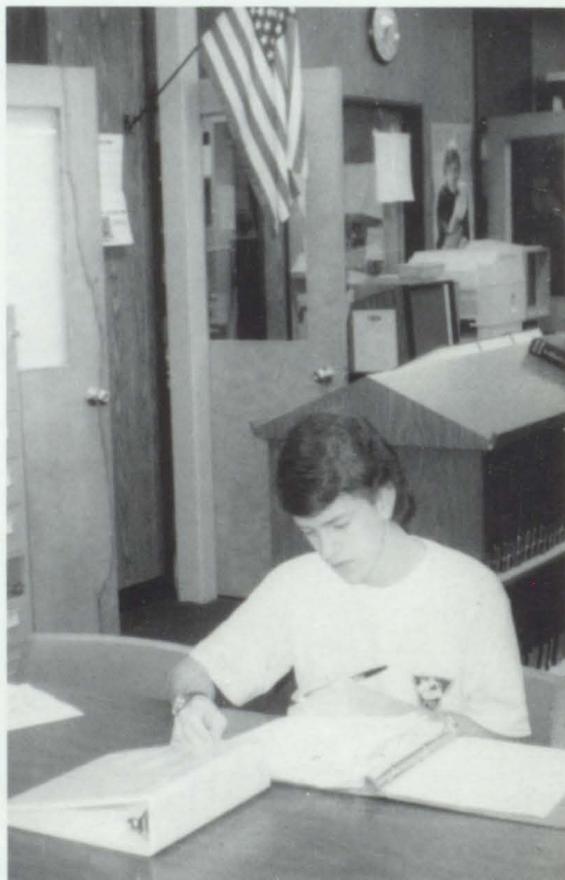

Sophomores Terry Sands, Michelle Young, Becky Loughran, Becky Blood, Jessica Crowley, Carrie Brown, and Christine Button make a Christmas poster for our troops in Saudi Arabia.

Shawn LaPlante tells Greg McPherson and Jenny Hunt it really is King Kong, while Joey Mazerolle stares in awe and Aimee Gosselin ignores them all.

Amanda Curtis works at being #1 on Ms. Wagner's brown-nose list.

Jeff Leeman doesn't like the idea of finding out what skin really looks like.

Amber DeForte shows us her Monday morning "I hate school" face.

Sarah Sturges spots the hidden camera while Jasmy Hairsine, Megan Wood, and Janet Berch are still unaware.

Untitled

I lie in a field of green, staring at the night sky with a child's wonder.
Away from the world of conquerors I dream
in the world of the damned
The grass growing with me
Through me
The sky twinkling — a million fireflies out of reach
Cradled in the earth, tears fall gently down on me
Whispering greetings,
longings,
goodbyes.
The nearby trees sing requiems to our mother
Joined in turn by the wind, the thunder and
the beating rain.
As the grass grows over me,
A sigh escapes my tear-stained lips, and rises —
Lost in the chaos of grief.

Waindel Fecit

---

The stars within the universe above shine brightly while the moon dims. I feel the cold air on my face and I shiver. I remember the stars with my father.

I felt a cold hand on my face. I was ordered to be about the house. Then, as I began to rise and go toward the house in my mate's footsteps, rain pelted my face. The cold darts hit my face like fire.

I scurried to get the children settled while taking orders too. I wondered why my father's kindness to my mother was a constant loving friendship. I reached carefully for a glass container. It fell into a thousand shattered pieces, as the rain did about my face.

I awoke to a clear sky. I felt the sun as it warmed my face and shone clearly on the morning dew of the grass. Sitting calmly, a light breeze flowed in my face.

The sun set again. I watched my father's star closely.
He winked, then, a smile. A tear fell from my eye. I looked up. My father was always there for me. My burdens will always increase. But, my father will always be my inner peace.

Artwork and Poetry

The stars become a part of me as I stare carefully into a black space. There is nothing there for me. My heart fills with anger. The cold air pierces my heart as sharp as an arrow.

My soul feels lost. I search endlessly for my father's star. The moon aims to a gray fog and the stars disappear with rapid movement. My father's star is black. Then, I closed my eyes.

— Wendy Currie

Matt Herrick 1991

Memories last forever . . .

As years pass on
Memories linger
Friendships wonder
With rays of a new dawn.

We understand how to cope
With experience gained
Knowledge strengthened
There's always hope.

Remembering what we did
Pondering what we said
All things happy
Thoughts never to rid.

These are our best years
Ones of happiness
Growing up, smiling
And sad tears.

Although at times it tough
At others surprising
We tend to cling to friends
When times get rough.

The dawn's bright rays
Brig fresh starts
Bond us together
To the sands of time.

Friends and memories
Bond us together.
These will always
Last forever.

— Nanette Smith

You were breathing me
superflowing Paris accents wordly eyes meals of delicacy

Skin as cherished as hummingbird down gamble this revel in this

I will have you
strolling barefoot under golden apartments of high rise paradise stealing conjectures

of how you'd be in love

Follow me and all your old enemies will go welcome to crystal realm
where the disowned are now majestic where the gorgeous are well received

Jamie Douglas

Nuclear Domination

The sun engulfs the sea
As my mind is bent
Broken fingers mold my face
As my flesh is eaten by unsatisfied travelers
The sun bleeds
Not light but fire
Molten cinders burn my eyes
And the black burden crushes my bones
I try to run but it is no use
My singed feet could carry me
But my legs having been crushed won't move.
I hold the blood in
I answer the phone
But it keeps ringing
All I hear is the far gone laugh
The laugh of beautiful women.
I don't know what to believe
As the sun falls to the earth
Erupting into a mountain of flames

— Jeremy Hammond

Leslie Colburn demonstrates the creative teaching methods utilized at Gorham.

The primary purpose of a school is to provide an education. We spend six hours a day, five days a week, working toward that end. Students go from class to class, from year to year, until that final moment of triumph — graduation.

The academics at Gorham have to take a lot of abuse. Few people want to admit that they enjoy school. Teachers struggle to make subjects as interesting as possible, and many succeed. Interest may be the key to learning, for what is the use of memorizing something to pass an exam, if it's gone two days later?

But our faculty work for a greater satisfaction. They not only teach out of a textbook, but with movies, games and stories. They add a little of themselves to the lessons and make even the academic section of Gorham High School a bit more bearable for us all.

Bill Bibber shows the results of a good education.

Assemblies

In an effort to create more school spirit, Gorham has resurrected a ghost from the past — assemblies. On the very first day we gathered in the gymnasium to meet the faculty. Later we were scheduled to have a debate between Tom Andrews and Dave Emery, who were running for Congress. Mr. Emery did not come, but Mr. Andrews gave his campaign speech and answered questions from the students. He also won the election.

Gorham students were given a very effective speech about the pitfalls of drug abuse by the mother of Len Bias. He had died of a cocaine overdose while a member of the Celtics basketball team. Mrs. Bias was an incredible speaker.

On a lighter note, students were assembled for a movie about positive attitudes. The movie was shown on three screens, side by side. It included popular songs by contemporary rock stars. Despite being almost too positive, the movie went over fairly well.

All in all, Gorham students saw a lot more of each other this year. The assemblies have been at least one visible attempt to create some school spirit. We applaud this effort, and hope to see even more of it in the future.

Construction

The new entrance to Gorham High School.

Gorham's new look — you won't see any letters falling off here.

Out with the bricks and in with the windows; if there was some heat to go with the light we'd be all set.

The students know that this looked even worse from inside the classrooms — but any walls are better than no walls.

Despite the lengthy construction schedule, most people at Gorham feel the end result did justify the means. The colors however (neon green and fluorescent purple) did take some getting used to.

Christmas greetings to you from Cheryl Marquis, Megan Allen, Dave Allen, Leigh Merriman, and Shane St. Cyr at the annual Student Council/NHS decorating spree.

The two o'clock bell frees students from classes, but it doesn't always send them home. For many of us at Gorham High, it seems the day is just beginning. Activities such as Debate Team, French Club, and Prom Committee meet to work or learn or just have fun.

Extra-curricular activities have long been known as a key to be accepted at colleges. But for students here they have much more meaning. A lot of clubs such as Ramster, Math Team, and Schola, require hours of hard work. People put in their time and effort for the special goal of knowing that you have truly accomplished something.

SIMPLY CLUBS

Activities are a way of bringing people together. When fundraising through car washes and bake sales, students make friends with people they might otherwise have never known. Some form teams, and students from Gorham work together in competition with other schools. Sometimes there is a specific goal to be reached, such as newspaper, prom, or yearbook.

Through both the hard work and the laughter, people at Gorham learn how to cope. And at the end of the year, they can sit back and remember — they did their best.

James Becker and Eric Swanson are way out with the outing club.

Saving the planet (While we still can)

Global involvement is a group now in its second year that deals with a number of globally pressing issues, such as environmental hazards and problems, animal rights, world hunger, and world peace. Students and faculty alike join to discuss solutions to these issues and ways to make the public aware and concerned. The club has helped the recycling committee to begin a recycling program in the high school and has goals for future community support and action.

Worried about the planet?? Nah — not us!!

The Outing Club, which was started by Mr. Roy, is an adventurous group of students and teachers who enjoy hiking, camping, mountain biking, and other outdoor activities. Their first adventure, a hike in Grafton Notch, Maine, was very successful despite the rain. Other events planned include an overnight in New Hampshire, cross-country skiing, and maybe an overnight at WBLM. There are currently 40 plus members involved.

Francais Tout le Monde?

This year's French club has gotten off to an outstanding start. Fundraisers are helping this year's group to reach their goal of going to Quebec. The members of this year's club are very enthusiastic and think it will be a fantastic time. The first fundraiser was a bottle drive. They went through the whole town of Gorham. It was a big success. At the end they had filled an entire garage with bottles.

Los Mejores

After being defunct for a year, the Spanish Club has been revived with the return of Senora Roy. Elections were held and because of a tie, Susan Wilcox and Andrea Loughran were named co-presidents. Other officers are vice-president Cheryl Marquis, secretary Renee Keniston, and treasurer Meredith Frisko.

The motto of the club is "Somos pocos pero buenos (We are few but good)." The numbers may be small, but the members are very enthusiastic. Fiestas, games, and Senora Roy's stories of Espana are undoubtedly the highlights of the club. Somos locos tambien? Es posible!

Mr. Fournier advises the French Club with energy and enthusiasm.

ALL FIRED UP

Mike Mercier studies to be an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT).

The Junior Fire Department is a vital part of the Gorham Fire Department. Juniors attend meetings once a month on Wednesdays, and also participate in on-hand training. On-hand training includes the use of special equipment such as the "Jaws of Life," and air tanks. Classes on Wednesdays are about 2 hours, the juniors go over tactics in the classroom and prepare for upcoming events. Rookie School was just completed for all newcomers. Classes were every Tuesday and Thursday for up to 3 hours.

The Junior Fire Department volunteers' beepers may irritate teachers, but their community help is very welcome and appreciated.

Notes from the Chorus

This year the chorus is, once again, under the direction of a new conductor — Chris Peterson. At the end of last year the numbers in the chorus were down and some were not sure if it would survive budget cuts. Yet we made it through the storm gaining a vibrant and excited conductor plus a chorus that has been constantly growing since the first week of school.

Mr. Peterson plans four concerts for the chorus this year and we will perform a variety of music before the year is finished. Spirituals, classical, folk, and "pop" tunes can be found in our repertoire.

This year will be a building year for the choral department and we hope its success encourages more people to become involved in years to come.

Music To Our Ears

The Gorham High School Concert Band is the largest instrumental organization in the school and is open to all students in grades 9-12. The concert band is committed to excellence and gives many concerts each year, performing the finest in wind band literature.

The Gorham High

School Stage Band performs a variety of styles, including swing, jazz, jazz-rock, and funk. The stage band is selected by audition from the concert band and puts in a tremendous amount of extra time to make it one of the most successful groups in the music department.

Picture Perfect

Under the direction of Mr. Lord, the photography club has done many different things this year. Members first learned the basic parts of the camera then progressed to developing black and white film.

Some began with skills few and far between, but the knowledge they have gained is priceless. Maybe some day one of the members will become a famous photographer just because of a sparked interest that began in high school.

PEER HELPERS

The Gorham High School Peer Helper group was created to provide trustworthy people to the student body as listeners their own age. A peer helper is someone that students can feel comfortable coming to with a specific problem to help them with situations concerning drugs and alcohol, abuse, suicide and any personal problems. The most important thing to understand and remember about the Peer Helpers is that they are always willing to listen when you need a friend, and everything is kept confidential.

Estudiantes Excelentes de Español

The Spanish Honor Society was founded in 1953 by the American Association of Spanish and Portuguese teachers. It honors secondary school students throughout North America who have excelled in the study of the Spanish language. The Gorham chapter is named GOYA, after the Spanish painter Francisco de Goya. This year, all of the students that were inducted were seniors. For graduation, they will receive a red cord to wear.

Community Service With a Smile

The National Honor Society inducted fourteen new members this year based on their strengths in the areas of character, leadership, scholarship, and service. Representing the senior class were Deirdre Fohlin, Alicia McFarland, Jennifer Maxwell, Meghan Rathmell, Marya Payeur, Allyson Aube, and Andrew Libby. From the junior class, Aaron Gould, Shane St. Cyr, Stacey Cross, Stephanie Cook, Tanya West, and Melinda Jewell became members this year. Ray Barnes and Phoebe McNeally were chosen from the sophomore class. A candlelight ceremony was held on November 9 for the inductees under the leadership of Mrs. Pamela Daniels.

In this chapter, service is the characteristic that is stressed the most. Each individual is required to do a community service project of their choice. In the past, members have volunteered at a hospital, or helped at a day care center. Group projects will also be planned for this year, in which every member takes part. The hope for these projects is to strengthen the ties between the school and the community.

A Night to Remember

The 1990/91 Committee is already working hard to make prom night very special. This is the largest prom committee that Gorham High School has ever had. The prom will be on Saturday, May 25th. Dinner will be served for everyone early in the evening and then that will be followed by a "plethora" of dancing 'til midnight. The chairmen of the committee are Samantha Aceto and Meghan Rathmell — They will be working together with all of the members of the committee to create the most wonderful evening of the year.

Betsy and Kate use their right to freedom of speech at the prom committee meeting.

Rampaging

The Ramster this year, still advised by Mr. Lord, hopes to continue our tradition in Gorham High School. We hope to reflect the spirit of change at GHS and around the world.

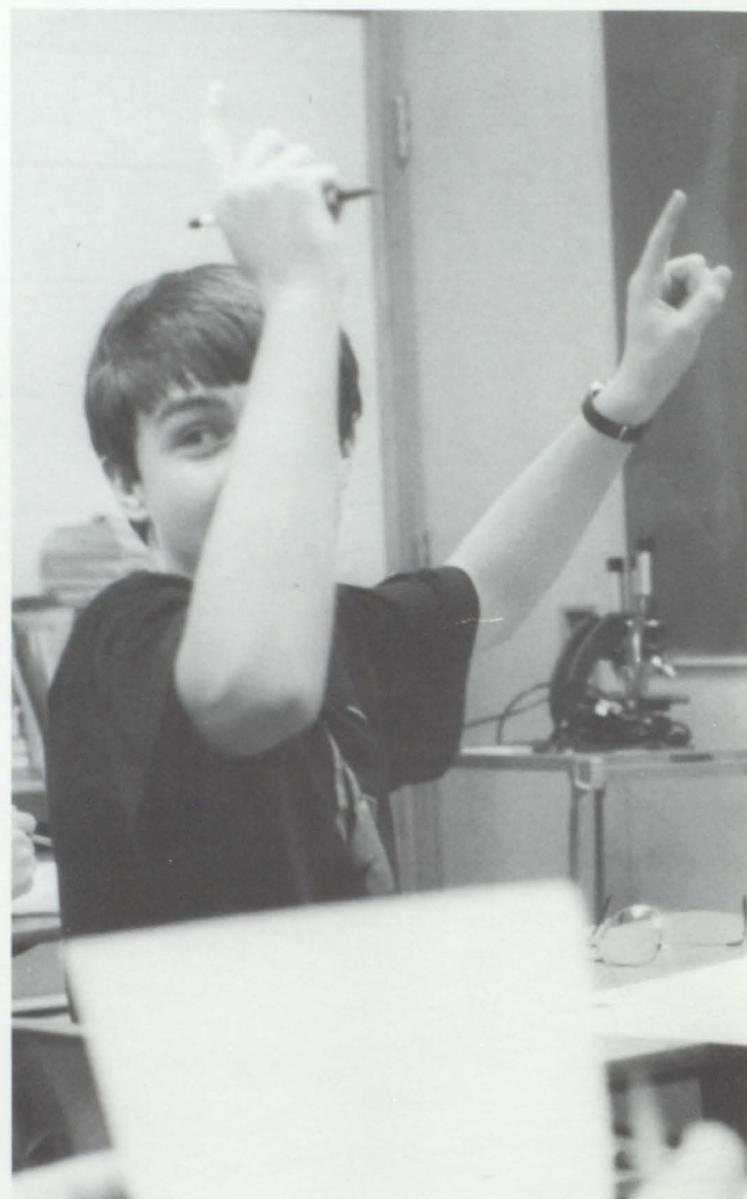

This year, the newspaper is under new editor, Aaron Gould. The staff is an excellent combination of interests. We hope to publish five to six issues with expanded coverage.

Divide and Conquer

The math team this year hopes to repeat the success of last season. Last year, the team took first place over the season in their division. They also took third place in our division at the state meet. This qualified the team for the New England math meet in Canton, Massachusetts.

The team has been expanded by several strong sophomore members. These new members, along with the die-hard core of juniors and seniors should prove to be an excellent combination in this year's competitions. With hard work and dedication, their goals of striving to win states and improving their performance will be a reality.

So I missed checking out one philosopher.

I've been researching this topic for a month. Trips to the school library, U.S.M. and Baxter. Sifting through magazines, books, microfilm and microfiche. I've got facts about everything else.

"You have one and a half minutes left of prep time."

I knew I should have slept last night. Three and a half hours of sleep does not work. I am never again going to write my debate speech the night before a debate. Thank God this is my fourth and last debate. My brain feels like tapioca pudding. At least I can sleep on the bus ride home.

"You have one minute of prep time left."

"I'm hungry. At least we're going to stop at Miller's restaurant on the way home. Thirteen dollars for all you can eat. My goal is eight plates tonight." Shoot, I forgot my Pepto.

"You have thirty seconds of prep time left."

I've got to win. After all, we're State Champs.

I want to go to Nationals this year. It's going to be in Chicago.

Oh well, back to Rousseau. I've got it.

"Time's up."

"In my rebuttal I'd like to go down over my opponent's case. She said in her first contention . . ."

Debaters get ready for their club pictures.

Aren't you glad you use Dial? Don't you wish everybody did?

SIMPLY SPORTS

Simply the best. It doesn't always mean winning it all. It's a term that implies the best in all aspects: the skill, the determination, the attitude, and the courage. In athletics, these characteristics (or lack of them) are shown in every play of every game.

Gorham athletes, like all other students in the high school, are expected to do their best! That means studying hard, practicing hard, and playing hard. It means attending all your classes, being on time, paying attention in class. It means representing your school well when you have away games or meets. While doing your best in a game may be difficult, keeping this positive attitude all the time is even more of a challenge.

But the students at Gorham are constantly meeting this goal. Our athletes deserve the support of their classmates, because they work hard on the field and off. The physical challenge of the sports is what draws us together at rallies and games. The mental challenge is what helps athletics prepare students to do their best even after graduation.

Jason McClure pins his opponent.

Ben Farrington meets the opposition.

Although numbers were against them this season, the Gorham wrestling team still remained highly competitive. With wins over Morse and Gardiner, (both class A schools) Coach Mike Marsh couldn't ask for anything more. The team will be losing three outstanding seniors, Russell Phillips (15-3-1) and captains Ryan Hicks (17-2-1) and Jason McClure who remained undefeated with a record of 20-0. Other members with outstanding achievements were Jeremy Reynolds, Randy Robinson and Ben Farrington. The team was proud that they were host to the Class B Western Maine Regional Championships and would like to thank all the winter sports teams for their continued support.

Meredith Frinsko closes on the opposition during the relay.

Jamie Douglas maintains his position around the corner.

The ecstatic boys indoor track team led an erupting season with a small yet upcoming team. During the regular season the competition focused on four individuals from Gorham. They were Chris Morehead — in intermediate hurdles and 300, Jason Frost — 40, 600, Tom Thibault — intermediate hurdles and 600, Jamie Douglas — 40, and 300.

The team as a whole did better than expected. Everyone on the team scored consistently high each meet. Considering the team's small size, they gave larger schools a run for their money. School records were shattered by Chris Morehead in the intermediate hurdles and Jason Frost in the Senior 600.

As of now the captains along with coach John Wilkinson and John Caterina are preparing the troops for next week's state meet. It's there the team is planning to make a bid for the championships.

Next year's team leaders will be Aaron Burns, Shane St. Cyr, Derek Libby, and Aaron Gould.

The team looks for hope.

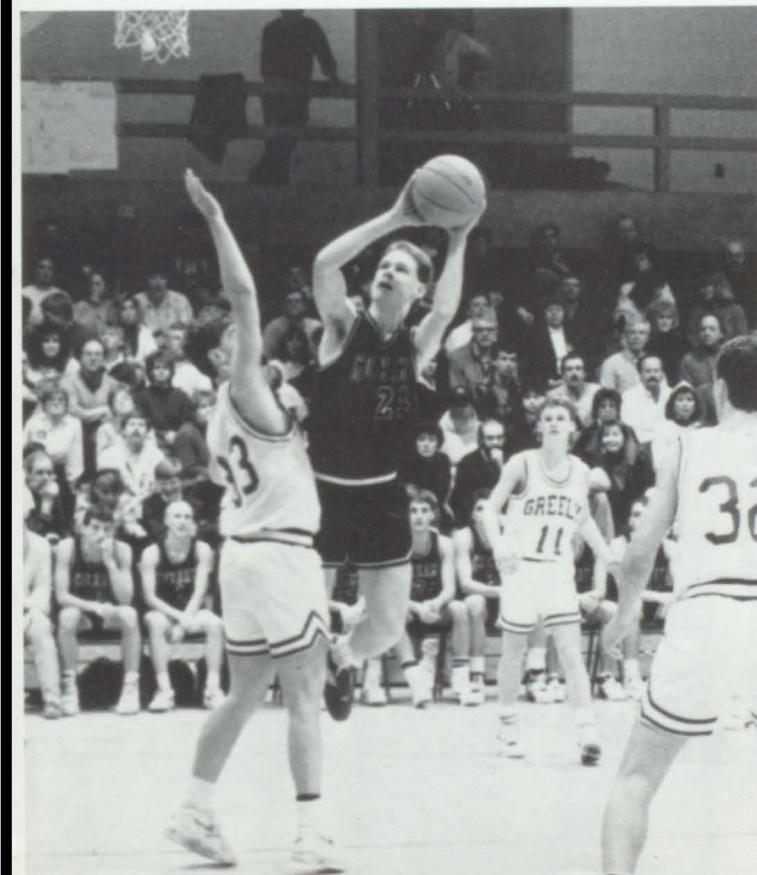

Brunson pulls up for the basket.

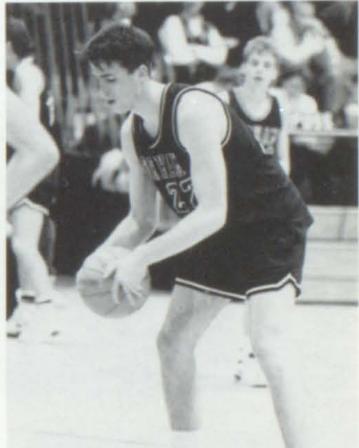

Jay leaves the team behind, but ahead on the scoreboard.

Greg spins for two.

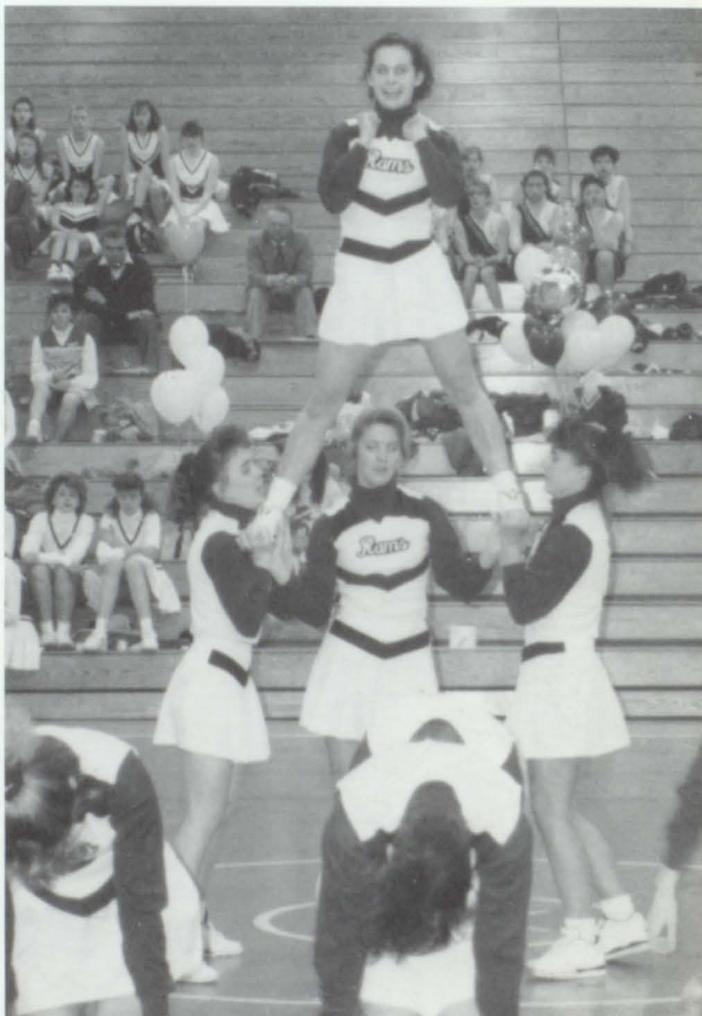

The Boy's Basketball Team capped their season by achieving many outstanding feats. To begin with, they had a record-setting 129-108 victory over Lake Region. The Rams set a school single-game record for points and also broke Gorham High School's records for the most points scored in a quarter and a half. The next accomplishment was capturing Coach Jenkins' 100th win. This was a come-from-behind overtime victory over Kennebunk: "This (the 100th victory) is special for any coach," said Jenkins. "But it's even more special when you win it in a game like this." The crowd went wild in the Greely High School Auditorium as Keith Young scored his 1000th career point. The countdown to this moment began a couple of games before; Jay Fogg, who broke and now holds the new school record for the most career assists, passed Keith the ball and he scored the two points that made him reach one thousand.

"G-O, Go, Go; Go, Fight, Win!"

Special Olympics

Prudence Spofford

The Gorham High Soccer teams volunteered this year at the Maine Special Olympics.

Robert Simkowitz

Brian MacMillian

with menial tasks, taught me that being the best and willing is not where the true success lies.

Although these Olympians also strive for success, they never forget how to have fun. The help and support they give to one another is an example we should all take notice of. I watched the old, the young, the deaf, the blind, the mentally ill, and the handicapped succeed in all that they attempted.

There was no name calling, no negative attitudes, and no giving up. These people were above such behavior in a world where the weak are often put down and pushed aside. — Allyson Aube

... in the first group of children that I encountered there were a couple of mentally impaired kids. A teammate and I set soccer balls up for a shooting drill. They all loved to shoot the ball at the goal. Then, where one of them kicked the ball into the net, they were excited as if they had just won a championship. They made me laugh and put me at ease, but there was one individual that I will never forget. During a break in activities, a friend and I began to kick a ball back and forth. A little kid, no more than seven or eight, walked towards us very slowly with his hands up in front of him to guide him. As he got closer I noticed that he wore very thick glasses. This child could barely see, but he traveled from one side of the field to the other just to see us play soccer. He joined in our game and I felt very proud of myself helping a child. It is worth everything to help a less fortunate little kid and to see him smile and laugh. — Jay Fogg

Ashli Johnson

Mr. Freudenburger gave his full attention to the players on the golf team. He was the most reliable coach we ever had. He may not have been highly skilled in golf, but he knew quite a bit about the game. His generosity and commitment made him our best friend. The time we spent on the course with Coach is something we'll cherish. Bill was a great coach, great man, and an awesome person. We'll miss the man we call "Freud!"

Mark Leavitt was with Gorham High School for five years, four years as the Varsity Boys' Soccer Coach. Mr. Leavitt was known throughout as one of the most knowledgeable coaches in the state. From the time Mr. Leavitt began coaching to the time that he left, the team's record steadily increased. Mr. Leavitt has built the Gorham Soccer Program back to the Western Maine power it once was through hard work and stressing the fundamentals. He will be sorely missed.

Kirk Butterfield was with the Gorham High Baseball Program for five years; four years varsity and one year junior varsity. Kirk was a coach that was well respected by his players and other coaches. He knew the game of baseball inside and out and enjoyed winning as much as anyone, but he always learned from a loss due to a mistake. Kirk was a real winner with an impressive two Western Maine Championships and two trips to the State Game — he came up short both times and lost one Western Maine Game. Gorham will miss him, but is grateful for the time and effort he put into the game he loved.

"Getting Madison back this year in State." — Samantha Aceto

"No Dana, that's my shin!" — Shannon Waindie

"One for three on dunks." — Keith Young

"There were 20 seconds left in the game and I had already taken my sneakers off and Coach O'Shea said, 'Christine . . .'; I went hopping over to him with one shoe on." — Christine Walsh
" . . . orying hysterically after beating Leavitt." — Meredith Frinsko

"Revenge on Bonny Eagle!" — Mike Nosek

"When the soccer official called 'strike three' on Matt Herrick at the Western Maine Semi-Final soccer game at Westbrook." — Mr. Myers

"Volunteering at Special Olympics . . . just because it was fun." — Derek Libby

"Our soccer game at Greely where the fog was so thick you couldn't see the other end of the field and it made everything wet and slippery." — Meghan Rathmell

"A fine tournament performance, my first tournament performance." — Ms. Hannigan

"Mr. Myers' operation." — Paul Frager

"Coach Speed said 'Kerri, get your steff on you're going in goal,' and then I sat on the bench." — Kerri Winslow

Follow your dream. I love you and I'm proud of you. Mom

Deb:
Always remember "You never fail until you stop trying: Can do"
Love — Mom, Dad, Tim, and Peter

Dear Kathleen,
We will miss your smiles and laughter. Good luck and happiness always.

    Love, Mom and Dad

Congratulations,
Jonst. Another milestone. Love
    Mom and Dad

Dear Janet,
These years of growing up with you have been a joy! — Watching you grow "as beautiful on the inside as you have been on the outside," seeing you embrace life and pursue what is true, knowing your decision to walk carefully, aware that others look up to you. Invest your life thoughtfully, wisely. Guard your heart. We love you. Your friends Mom and Dad

Dear Ruth Ann,
Life is like a maze. We are proud of you and the paths you have chosen. Love Phil and Mom

Editor's Note.

With this page comes the close of another yearbook. Still, nothing is properly over without certain thank yous, good byes, and farewells. Schola 1991 would like to thank all of its patrons and supporters, and a special bow to Jonathan Shevis, Sara Friel, and Janice Friel for their work on the advertising campaign. A well-deserved thanks and good luck to the advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Hinds, for their time and patience (and impatience!). I would like to acknowledge Meghan Rathmell for her work in the Sports section, and Nate Powell for producing the Student Life section. Thanks also go, of course, to Renee Keniston for joining and remaining with the staff, and Peter Lord, for another year of graphics and insulting captions. Good luck with Scholar 1991!

Sincerely,
Jennifer Maxwell
