An Experiment in Birding

A Presentation and Book Signing by Stacey Huth and Noah Gibb

What is possible when two bird-loving people come together, form a team, and apply both their overlapping and unique skills to see the most bird species in Maine in one year? A tale of their record setting Maine big year for birders and non-birders alike!

Tuesday
August 11
1 pm

Two friends, Stacey Pazar Huth (a scientist) and Noah Gibb (an avid birder, photographer, and birding tour guide) embarked on a Maine Big Year and discovered how their team effort was a winning combination. What started as an occasional bird walk at the local marsh grew into the concept of their Integrated Birding Process and "The Experiment." They combined top-notch birding expertise with remarkable strategic planning. The outcome resulted in a new state of Maine record of 332 species of birds seen in a calendar year!

Come visit
the Baxter House Museum!

Open through August on Tuesdays and Thursdays, as well as the first Saturday of the month from 10am to 1pm.

Admission is free, but donations are accepted and encouraged!
